

Polyend Marks 10 Years with Limited-Edition Tracker Mini.

Olsztyn, Poland – June 3, 2025 — To celebrate a decade of Polyend, the Poland-based company has unveiled a limited-edition 10th Anniversary version of its Tracker Mini—rebuilt in a precision-machined aluminum enclosure, with redesigned buttons, a high-resolution glass screen, and the same fast, sample-based tracker workflow.

This release is the first time Polyend’s flagship handheld groovebox is available in a premium all-metal enclosure. It comes in two finishes: Black or Silver. The rest of the experience is unchanged: instant sampling, deep sequencing, stereo audio, synth engines, and audio over USB.

Built to Order.

The Tracker Mini 10th Anniversary Edition is made to order—only the number of reserved units will be manufactured. Each reservation also includes $199 worth of Polyend Palettes, the company’s carefully curated collection of sample packs, received upon reservation of the device.

We are very happy with where the Tracker Mini is today. We've kept improving it with regular updates, adding features our users have asked for, like synth engines and note input mode," said Piotr Raczynski, founder and CEO of Polyend. "But for our tenth anniversary, we wanted to do something special that reflects our roots. We revisited the core of our design philosophy and are creating a small batch of refined, all-aluminum instruments, without the compromises that come with large-scale production. It's a reflection of what we've learned in the past 10 years, made to order for the people who've supported us through this journey."
